II. Global exposure from derivatives contracts

1. Global exposure (commitment value) is the value converted to money which securities investment funds/companies are parties with the obligation of contract implementation. The global value is determined upon the market value of underlying assets, payment risks, market volatilities and the time necessary for position liquidation.
2. In calculating global exposure, the Fund Management Company may apply
 - i. Net offset principle of derivative position (reverse) for the same underlying asset, for example the purchase position of XYZ securities call option reduces (offsets) the global exposure from sale position of XYZ securities call option;
 - ii. Net offset principle of derivative position and spot delivery position of the same security, for example the purchase position (holding) of XYZ securities offsets (reduce) the global exposure from the sale position of XYZ securities call option
 - iii. Principles shall be in accordance with international practice, ensuring risk management

No.	Type of derivative	Global exposure (commitment value)
-----	--------------------	------------------------------------

1	Stock option (purchase/sale of call/put option)	Market value of option position ¹ is adjusted by delta coefficient of option = Number of contracts x value of shares per contract x current market value of share x delta coefficient ²
2	Bond option (purchase/sale of call/put option)	Market value of option position(*) is adjusted by delta coefficient of option = Number of contracts x nominal value x current market value of bond x delta coefficient
3	Index future contract	Market value of future position = Number of contracts x value calculated on an index point x current index level
4	Bond future contract	Market value of future position = Number of contracts x value contracts calculated under notional value x market value of the cheapest transferable bonds
5	Other contract	Upon the model selected by the Fund Management Company, with agreement of Supervisory Bank and approved by Fund Representative Board.

¹ If there is purchase position, the market value may be adjusted to increase premium.

² Delta coefficient is the simple derivative of option price over underlying securities price. In the simple case, the delta coefficient may be considered as 1. In case of complex option, the delta coefficient shall be determined by the Manager after being approved by the Fund Representative Board.
